

Pigs Tell Porky Pies!

Today, the 4th of March 2014, a group of three pigs were arrested for the murder of Mr B. Wolf.

At 9.13pm, the police arrived at the brick house of the three little pigs and arrested them. The pigs were bundled into an armoured car under gun-point.

Mrs Wolf, devastated at her husband's murder, said that she was just glad that the pigs would be brought to justice and that Mr Bigbad Wolf would be cleared of all charges.

The pigs had framed Mr Wolf for the destruction of their properties and boiled him in a pot, they claimed it was self-defence as the wolf had blown down the pigs houses and tried to eat them.

After this, evidence came to light that Bigbad had asthma. A doctor, who treated Mr Wolf, had this to say: "Mr Wolf barely had the puff to blow up a balloon, he could never have blown down a house!"

Further investigation revealed that the pigs could not keep up with their mortgage repayments and were in desperate need of money. By blowing up their own houses they were able to claim money from their insurance company. Mr Stark, a bank manager, had this to say:....