Rights and Responsibilities

Tolerance and Respect for Others

Our Class

Think about everyone who is in our class. Can you think of things that make everyone different from each other?

How many things can you think of?

IDENTITY

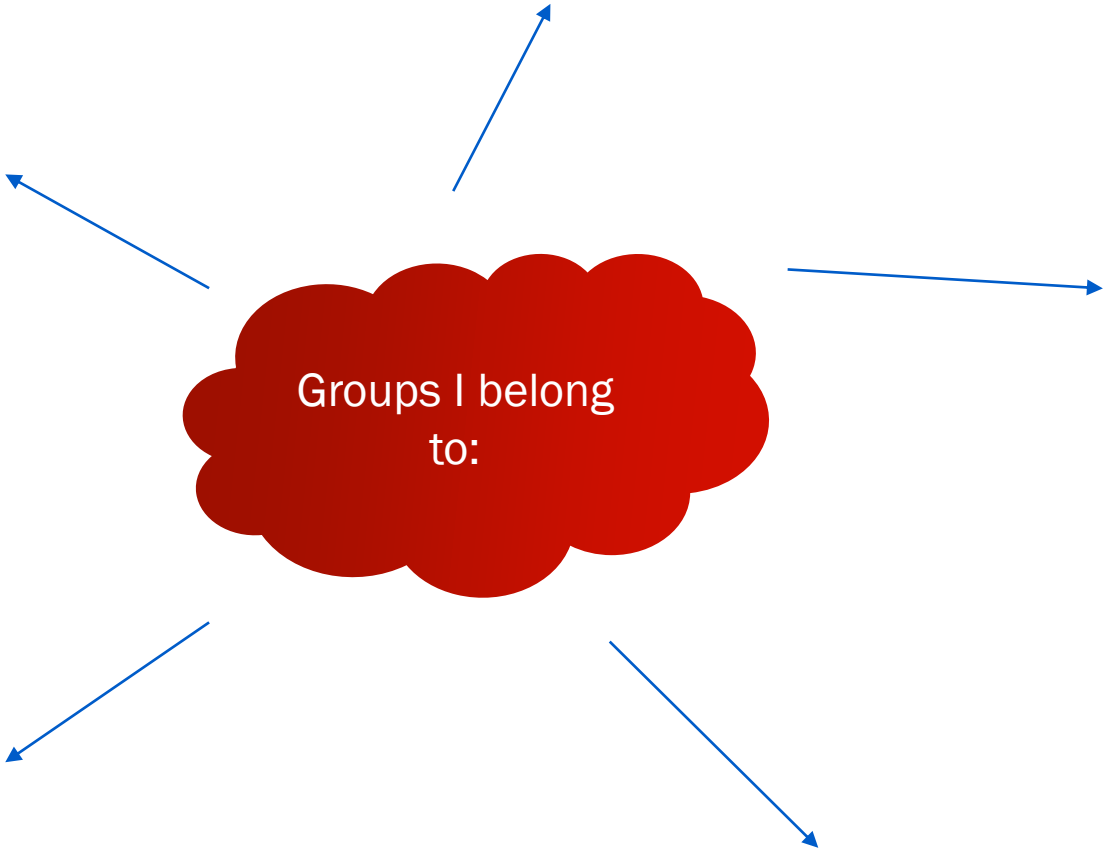
The characteristics determining who or what a person or thing is.

In other words, all those qualities and attributes that make up a person and makes them unique.

IDENTITY

The word identity can also be used to describe a group of people.

Can you name some different groups that you belong to?



Activity 1 – Read the Tolerance and respect newspaper report (attached to the class webpage)

It is important to point out that the story is fictitious (made up) as is the location, the individuals named and the Shima community.

Think about and make notes about these questions:

What are your thoughts about the story?

Why do you think some of the local residents objected to the Shima community building their place of worship (the Walhala)

Do you think it was the building that residents objected to or the people themselves? Why?

Why do you think that Adam Bleak suggested they might be 'planning all sorts of things'? What evidence did he have for that?

What do we mean by the word prejudice? Do you think the residents were prejudiced against the Shima community? Why?

In what other ways can people sometimes be prejudiced?

What does prejudice mean?

RESPECT

Prejudice means...

pre-judging someone or having an idea about them before you actually know anything about them.

Create a poster using the word RESPECT and finding a word or phrase for each letter which reinforces the message of promoting respectfulness of others. For example:

R – really we are all the same underneath
E – everybody deserves respect
S – stand up to prejudice
P – people come in all shapes, sizes and colours
E – each of us is unique
C – caring for each other is the most important thing we can do
T – treat others in the same way that you would want to be treated by them

You may wish to choose other words in your posters such as TOLERANCE, DIVERSITY and so on.

Thank You!
